Release of Source Code Requires Prior Fully Paid Valid Plucom Technology "With Source" License

Release of Source Code Requires Adherence to Plucom Technology software End User License Agreement (EULA)

Release of source code does NOT allow Licensee to use source code except in conjunction with those Plucom Technology licenses. Release of source code does NOT release Licensee from our requirement of having a valid, paid in full, license for each Plucom Technology installed, or used, by Licensee per the Plucom Technology EULA. The terms of this Agreement augment those terms and conditions set forth in the EULA. The EULA was accepted by Licensee when purchasing the Plucom Technology licenses.

Release of Source Code Does Not Entitle Licensee to Updates Beyond Plucom Technology License Terms

Licensee is entitled to source code for only those versions of Plucom Technology software to which they would normally be entitled based upon their initial purchase and any additional support or upgrade Plucom Technology software license purchases made by Licensee.
